

ASPECTS OF INTERREGIONAL DEVELOPMENT CULTURAL CHALLENGE

13-17.NOVEMBER.2023

SAP OVERVIEW

In a culturally friendly society, active participation is encouraged. To achieve a comprehensive understanding of a society's cultural needs and recognise the significance of cultural rights and the need for renewed cultural policies, it is essential to foster synergy between culture and education, as well as artistic and cultural production. With this learning experience, you will have the opportunity to be part of an interdisciplinary international group that will propose solutions to transform our society into one where culture and the arts occupy a central role in sustainable development, as in an inclusive interregional ecosystem. Participation in this SAP is a chance to have leaders who fully grasp the importance of strengthening cultural rights as a foundation for complete citizenship and to collectively rise to the challenge of creating a culturally friendly society that truly values and integrates culture and the arts as a common good.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the end of this RUN-EU SAP, you will be able to:

- Analyse yourself and your actions within a culturally friendly future society.
- Get a clear view of society's cultural needs and understand the importance of cultural rights, the synergy between culture and education, and artistic and cultural production.
- Validate the necessity of fostering cultural citizenship among people.
- Acquire transdisciplinary skills to promote cultural participation, strengthening cultural rights for full citizenship.
- Design a society where culture and the arts are at the centre of integral and sustainable development, as in an interregional ecosystem in which culture is seen as a public good.
