

ASPECTS OF INTERREGIONAL DEVELOPMENT SUSTAINABLE GROWTH CHALLENGE

13-17.NOVEMBER.2023

SAP OVERVIEW

This challenge is framed by the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) of the UN addressing key issues related to the sustainable growth and development of regions, by fostering economic prosperity, enhancing social welfare, and bolstering the overall competitiveness of the European Union (EU). Several EU policies have played a pivotal role in substantially diminishing the disparities in development levels among various regions, tapping into their growth potential, to succeed and be attractive in the twin green and digital transitions in an interconnected world.

This SAP provides an opportunity to understand and discuss key concepts, frameworks, and best practices employed by regions in an international and interdisciplinary environment to promote a more circular economy and the challenges they've overcome to achieve successful and sustainable growth and competitiveness.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the end of this RUN-EU SAP, you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the principles and drivers of sustainable growth, including its importance in regional development and competitiveness.
- Get a clear view of factors that contribute to regional competitiveness, identifying strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats within different regions.
- Design collaborative strategies and endeavour partnerships that promote interregional development and competitiveness within a more circular economy.
- Communicate information, ideas, problems, and solutions to both specialist and non-specialist audiences.
- Define and claim your sustainable development citizenship, personally and professionally within the framework of the UN SDGs.
